

Can Do Picks

Hammered Flowers Printing on Fabric, Paper and Wood Michelle Moore

You can make beautiful, colourful and surprisingly delicate prints by hammering the pigment from flowers and leaves with a mallet – a process known as ‘flower-pounding’. These sustainable step-by-step projects – ranging from indigo-leaf table runners to cosmos socks and viola tote bags – show you how to get the best results. Not only can you find out how to grow the most suitable blooms in your garden and to forage flowers from the wild, but you can discover which plants are best for dyeing; how to pre-treat your fabric, paper or wood for bright, long-lasting colour; and which hammers, mallets and techniques work best on particular plants and base materials. By the end of this book, you will be able to take any of your favourite flowers, petals and leaves and turn them into eco-friendly printed textiles, greeting cards, and artwork that can be cherished for years to come.

Beautiful Shells

Mark Carnall

This book reproduces the stunning, exquisitely drawn and sometimes fanciful shell illustrations from an extraordinary forgotten volume published in 1811. Following an introduction exploring our fascination with shells and their impact on human history, culture and science, each of the 61 colour plates is included alongside a description of notable shells and what is known of the mysterious organisms that make them. From the common limpet and razor clam to the valuable cowry and spectacular divine conch, the wide range of shells featured form a treasure trove of natural beauty from our oceans and shores.
